Basements are most sensitive part of the Building Construction and pose various challenges. The construction industry is struggling for overcoming these challenges. The construction of basements is being carried out throughout the region and the industry is learning by mistakes, but the leanings remain with the individual Agencies. It's high time that these lessons learnt everywhere are compiled and spread within the industry as a common Knowledge Bank. So that the concerned agencies can make informed decisions while in planning stage and also during execution.
